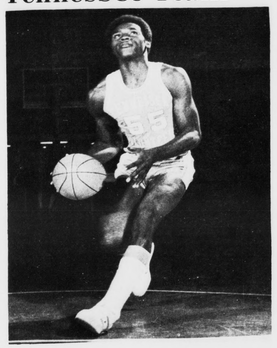
Robinson Adds All-American Power To Tennessee Team



KNOXVILLE – The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, has a new challenger to basketball foes in the transfer of junior college All-American and two-time Virginia all-stater in high school, Larry Robinson of Appomattox.

Robinson, a six foot, five inch forward and a junior is playing for Tennessee this year as a transfer from Ferrum Junior College in Ferrum, Virginia, under Coach Marty Morris, who also came to the Univ. of Tennessee to join the cage coaching ranks.

Robinson, who possesses outstanding backboard ability, averaged 19 points and 12 rebounds a game at Ferrum. He was a two-time Virginia all-stater in high school (Carver Price), shining in both basketball and as a fullback on the football team.

Univ. Tennessee appears to be delighted with this fine defensive player. Coaches there say that he "blocks shots with authority, and is exceptionally quick." Joe Lewis was coachat Carver Price High School when Robinson made the All-State ranks twice.

Tennessee is trying for a sixth consecutive Volunteer Classic championship. In past seasons Tennessee sailed smoothly through its first round tests in the Volunteer Class, a 55-49 verdict over Oklahoma in 1968 ranking as its closest call. The Volunteers rolled past Auburn 73-49 in 1966 trounced Illinois 66-42 in 1967, whipped Montana State 71-42 in 1969 and trimmed San Francisco, 79-59 in 1970.

The Volunteer Classic begins Friday, Dec. 17.

Telephone Cos. Launch Program

Continental Telephone Corporation and its member companies, which includes First Colony Telephone Company have launched a major program to establish a cohesive association of identify for all system companies and divisions.

The program will involve everything from company stationery and business cards to vehicles and phone booths. It will be implemented first by First Colony Telephone Company and other members of the corporation's nationwide telephone system. Later, it will be expanded to cover manufacturing, service and other subsidiaries.

Featured in the identity campaign is the adoption of new company colors of orange, avocado and white, along with a coordinated approach to their use; consistency in the design and use of company names within the system, including wider reference to bring "A Member of Continental Telephone System;" and system-wide use of a typeface and lettering style especially designed for the corporation.

In order to keep costs to a minimum, the changeover will be made gradually, with at least two years required for complete implementation. Stationery, forms and other related items will only be replaced as existing stocks are exhausted. The same practice will hold true for company vehicles which will be converted to the new color scheme as they are replaced or require painting.

Continental Telephone Corporation's new colors will play a major role in generating system association among member companies. Orange and avocado stripes will be used along the bottom half of all vehicles with otherwise will be painted a true white. The avocado band will be twice as wide as the orange. The colors will be applied at the new car factory while company operated "vehicle centers" established around the country will handle repainting and apply the individual company names to the cards and trucks. The names of the various companies will come in self-adhesive pre-cut kit form and be in a "scothlite" reflective material as a safety factor. As a further check on safety, the color combination was pretested for visability in a variety of climates and terrains.

The use of the color bands, in the same 2-1 ration, also will be featured on external stationery, envelopes and business cards. Different applications of the new company colors also will appear on customer billing statements, employee information pieces and other items of internal and external correspondence.

Vehicles, stationery and other items used by First Colony Telephone Company will begin appearing with the new identification sometime in 1972.

Continental Telephone Corporation operates the third largest independent telephone system in the country and is listed among the 500 largest companies in the U.S. Its member companies serve more than 1.7 million telephones in 42 states, parts of Canada and the Carribbean.

Christmas Gift Of Sight

RICHMOND – Lions Club members of Virginia are asking you to give a Christmas gift that won't cost a penny.

The Lions have issued a statewide appeal to Virginians to pledge the donation of their eyes to the Old Dominion Eye Bank, after death, for use in sight-restoring corneal transplant operations.

It is estimated that some 25,000 Americans could be helped right now, if human eye tissue were available. Worldwide, over five million persons could be given restored or improved sight through such operations.

These needs cannot be filled because not enough human eye tissue is being made available through the eye donor program.

Lions Club members are asking the people of their communities to give this gift of sight as a special act of charity in this Christmas season. Those who wish to do so may contact any member of their local Lions Club or write directly to Old Dominion Eye Bank, 408 North 12 Street, Richmond, Va.

Old Dominion Eye Bank is totally supported by the Lions of Virginia. It makes no charge for its services or for the human eye tissue it receives and distributes.
